

Dr. Wilcynski worked in the Cedar Rapids schools for more than forty years. She worked as an elementary counselor, a high school language arts teacher, and as principal of Metro High school. She is recently retired as principal at Kennedy High School. Dr. Wilcynski is currently a professor at Coe College where she teaches in the Education Department, and advocates for students who can benefit from additional support.